

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

This information retransmission device (2) includes elements (21) for exchanging information with a remote server (4) via a telecommunications network (6). It is characterized in that it further includes automatic elements (23) for detecting the presence of a nearby output device (8) and for retransmitting information received from the remote server (4) from the device (2) to the output device (8) that has been detected nearby.